Life lessons/morals

1 Adults tend to forget that they were once children who saw beauty and adventure in little things.

2 Numbers are not everything.

3 Building relationships is important for your mental health. Loneliness is one of mental health issues. It is important to establish friendships, partnership, etc. so that you can let yourself feel the feels and feel like you belong to a community.

1 point of view toward life

Adult/grownup vs child

1.1 adult that see the world through reality

They think drawing is nonsense.

They don't have imagination, while a child has creativity.

1.2 strange/odd adults that the Little Prince visited

-the king -- > obsessed (adj =หมกมุ่น) with power, like to order to show off his power

-the conceited man → obsessed with appearance (รูปร่างหน้าตา), He wanted to be admired/gain reputation

-the business man -- > obsessed with materials (ทรัพย์สิน), He wanted to gain more.

-the tippler -- > cannot handle the stress of life and turn to drink

-the lamplighter - - > strictly followed the orders/ lack of passion to find some reprieve (relaxation)

* the lamplighter has the least funny job because he has a relationship with something other than himself -- > the importance of establishing ties

-the geographer - - > narrowed minded, focus on theory but never experience the world outside.

Which one is your most favorite characters? Why?

Which one is your least favorite characters? Why?

Why did the Little Prince leave his planet?

If you were him? What would you do? Would you do the same?

Why did the author stop his dream to become a painter?

If you were him, will you do like him?

What can we learn from the snake/fox?
